When the same person is titular of many the functions mentioned above, they take the rank associated with the highest function in the order of precedence.

ARTICLE 3.

The ambassadors, when they participate in official ceremonies, take the ranks and places, by order of accreditation date.

ARTICLE 4.

The ranks and the order of precedence cannot be delegated.

With the exception of the representatives of the Sovereign Princess or of the Minister of State, the representatives of an authority that assist to a public ceremony occupy, in the order of precedence, the rank which corresponds to their function and not the rank of the authority which they represent.

In their absence, the Minister of State can delegate, for their representation, a Councillor-Minister which then occupies that rank in the order of precedence.

By exception to the rule presented in the first paragraph, the Vice-President of the National Council, the Vice-President of the State Council or the Vice-Mayor, occupy the rank in the order of precedence of the authority that they represent.

ARTICLE 5.

When they are called to participate in official ceremonies, retired individuals to which honorific position of their function was conferred, take rank immediately after the titulars.
